

I loved my career

I loved my career, but now that's not true long hours, dull duties, works' endless queue

It's time I thought harder what to do with my life
I'm unhappy and bored, it's not fair to my wife

Sole purpose or calling, deep questions begin I search for solutions by looking within

When I was a kid I yearned to do art my parents said no, so it's the place I will start

True authentic self lives lost inside me begging and praying to finally be free

I will reduce obligations to discover my soul make dynamic optimism my thoughtful new goal

Cultivate creativity and open some doors opportunity's knocking, just answer yours

Remember an era when your world all made sense when you weren't so distracted, frustrated and tense

Change what you're doing, today's not to soon your family and friends, will love your sweet tune.

Excerpt from "The Poetry of Business"

Author: Tracy Lynn Repchuk

www.ThePoetryof.com